In every country in the world there are young people who want to play rugby but can't because they have no kit. Every year in the UK kit worth thousands of pounds is outgrown and thrown away.

Please hold an SOS kit collection at your school or club and donate your surplus kit. SOS already helps nine emerging countries and has 47 more on the waiting list.

You can really make a difference to young people's lives and develop rugby too!

SOS Kit Collection can be run as an approved project for the Duke of Edinburgh's Award. Alternatively it can simply be run as a very worthwhile School Community Project.

The posters on your school/club notice boards will inform you when and where to bring your kit donations.

47 more countries in Europe and Africa are awaiting help from SOS so all donations are welcome and gratefully received.

"I can only encourage everyone to join in and send as much kit as they can to SOS iRB Kit Aid who do such great work to develop junior rugby in emerging rugby countries."
